

World Council of Credit Unions

Distinguished Service Award

2013

To be presented at the World Credit Union Conference, July 14–17, 2013, in Ottawa, Canada.

The Distinguished Service Award (DSA) is the international credit union system's highest honor, first presented by World Council in 1986 to recognize member organizations and individuals for their outstanding contributions to credit union development worldwide. The 2013 DSA will be presented during the World Credit Union Conference, July 14–17, in Ottawa, Canada. World Council member organizations may submit nominations in the following categories:

DSA Individual:

Women and men who have provided exemplary service to the international credit union movement qualify for the individual category. These may be World Council and member organization officers, directors or representatives, international pioneers, experienced field technicians or persons who have positively influenced credit union development. Former World Council officers, directors or employees are eligible for nomination one year after having held office or employment with World Council when they receive a DSA.

DSA Institutional:

Organizations that have provided financial and technical assistance over an extended period of time to develop international credit union movements and their service infrastructure may be nominated in the institutional category.

DSA nominations are due by March 11, 2013, to:

2013 Distinguished Service Award

SELECTION CRITERIA

The World Council awards committee reviews all nominations and selects the DSA recipients. Individuals nominated for the award should demonstrate some or all of the following:

- Personal history of commitment to international credit union development outside the nominee's home country.
- A record of technical service to the development of other credit union movements beyond their own national boundaries.
- Ongoing institutional development by playing a leading role in advancing World Council.
- Ability to locate and mobilize resources needed by World Council and its affiliates to establish strong credit union movements wherever they are sought.

No more than three (3) individual awards may be granted each year.

Institutions nominated for the DSA must meet the following qualifications:

- Ongoing commitment to international credit union development for more than three years.
- Technical assistance provided beyond the nominee's borders has led to measurable results within the region receiving it and has an ongoing history following the end of the period of assistance.
- The range of programs funded has led to concrete changes and development as anticipated beyond their borders.

No more than one (1) institutional award may be granted each year.

Previously nominated individuals or institutions that have not been selected may resubmit their candidature for consideration with updated documentation. Only World Council member organizations may make DSA nominations.

SUBMISSION DEADLINE

DSA nominations are due March 11, 2013. To nominate a candidate please submit the items below in the nomination checklist.
